Program overview:

Ethical leadership is a form of leadership in which individual leader demonstrates conduct for the common good that is acceptable and appropriate in every area of life. Ethical leadership is anchored on three premises of leadership by example, champion of ethical standards and good communication. Ethical leaders create quality relationships between them “The leaders” and their followers which are built on mutual trust, fairness, integrity, openness, compassion and respect for all. Ethical leaders can help establish a positive environment with productive relationships with the individuals, the team, the organization and the society at large.

Leading ethically requires the understanding of the four-value model that helps to align the internal beliefs and values with the external behaviors and actions of others for the common good of all to prevent and resolve any ethical challenge.

For whom:

This program is designed for people in leadership positions in both private and public organizations. This training will provide participants with in-depth discussion and analysis about the importance of ethics in organizational and societal leadership. Leaders who want to optimize their team performance and Leaders in public domain who want to master the principles of impactful leadership will benefit also from this program.
